Fidget Spinners

In 2017, fidget spinners took the world by storm. Fidget spinners are meant to entertain and to keep your hands busy. Quickly, they became ubiquitous, appearing in the hands of children everywhere. This led to some schools banning fidget spinners, saying that they were a distraction from learning. Others claimed that they were useful for children who struggled with ADHD or autism.

Although there is no scientific evidence that they help children learn, advertisers used this claim to sell more of them
